I appreciated the new Windows 10 operating system's improved touch interface, which is a welcome change. We shouldn't be surprised by Apple offering Touch ID on its own devices, but I don't hesitate to use Windows 10. The Surface Pro included a fingerprint scanner on its cover, and I can't recommend it enough. By the way, I'd advise against buying Windows 10 from the Microsoft Store as it resulted in errors that resulted in system crashes. The biggest hurdles I encountered while I was using the HP Stream 11 (aka Chromebook Pixel e-reader) were on the software side. First, the OS requires Java or Microsoft Silverlight to function, and the programs are not available on the Web. Also, the operating system is unstable even with optional updates. I tried downloading the native Linux versions of Lightroom and Photoshop, but they didn't seem to work at all. That means users have to plan ahead and know that they don't have access to custom software. Out of this entire category of notebooks, Windows is the only one that can be upgraded. An interesting notion is that Adobe could adapt its Creative Suite 6 for Windows 8.1 in order to provide a Windows-like environment for software developers who do not want to build their own Windows desktop applications. Finally, so far, I found Lightroom's and Photoshop's interfaces very difficult to learn to use. Many menus are included that make more sense when you first delve into the software (File, Develop, Edit, History and many more).

Christmas is coming. Are you a mom out there struggling to make this festive season extra special for your family? I know I am. I don't live in a big or extravagant house -- just a humble bungalow. So I know what it's like to feel like there is not enough room to spread a festive Christmas feel throughout the house. I asked my mom, who lives in a 400 square foot bungalow, and her best advice is to pick up those small decorations that are easy and can be attached or hung, they are the best bargains and the best way to fill it up. She mentioned we could put them up in our kitchen and dining room and spice up the place.
